“Home Away From Home” Workshop

*FREE, 5pm-7pm, Wednesday
6th March, The Living Room*

International students have a double whammy coming to a new country, a new culture and a new lifestyle when they come to study in the UK.

Here is a chance to come along and hear from a few of our international students about their own experience of coming to study in England, the challenges they may have faced and how they overcame them.

We want international students to know they are not alone in the issues that might arise for them, and we will also be hearing from our VP Welfare, VP Education and VP Societies, as well as the International Office and the Centre of Wellbeing about dealing with homesickness, loneliness, adapting to a new culture, language barriers and more.

A relaxed, informal workshop where international and home students alike can come together, share experiences and have some fun.

International Farmer’s Market “Tastes of the World”

Thursday 7th March, Rubix

We’re adding an extra international twist to the Farmer’s Market on the Thursday of International Festival. Baking Society and Culinary Society will be dishing up some unusual tasty global recipes for you!

As well as the food you will also be able to buy the recipe booklets to make it all at home yourself and all the proceeds go to charity! Don’t miss out on this taste sensation!

International Summit

Thursday 7th March, 6pm-8pm, LTE

We’re bringing a touch of debating to International Festival with our very own summit! Come along and give your views on some hot topics of the global nature.

We’ll be having some guests on our panel and it’s set to be an interesting evening!

International Gala

*Friday 8th March, 7pm, £4,
University Hall*

Some of our fantastic international and cultural societies are going to be showcasing a whole host of dance, music and entertainment at the International Gala!

A colourful, captivating and diverse performance, come along and see cultural traditions and have some fun! Support our societies and let’s draw International Festival to a close with a bang!
